SUMMARY

Introduction

It is necessary for any person or institution to be aware of new developments or news that arise on issues that affect us directly. For this reason, this press dossier has been compiled so that the entire Adorers family can be "up to date".

In order to achieve this objective, we will gather news on a bi-weekly basis, based on three fundamental axes:

1. The presence of our Congregation in the media.
2. News about the different projects of the Adorer Family.
3. News about Human Trafficking and Sexual Exploitation.

The aim of these materials is to make the Adorer Family aware of the social work carried out by our Congregation as well as the dramatic situation against which, fundamentally, we put all our effort and commitment.

Abstract: A total of 7 trafficked women refugees have participated in the survey on the Reception and Integration of Refugees in Spain (AIRE) by Cidob Barcelona and UNHCR, the UN Refugee Agency. This information will allow us to learn more about their experience but will also help us to provide recommendations on reception and integration policies and services. We value very positively that organizations such as the UNHCR, together with Cidob on this occasion, carry out this type of initiative and promote that refugee, as users of the Spanish asylum system, can evaluate it and give their opinión.

Abstract: The women have experienced a gastronomic journey to the heart of Africa, thanks to the generosity of one of their companions, who has cooked for all of them a typical dish of her country. Being far from home brings with it a longing for the land of origin and its recipes, which become, at the destination, a symbol of identity and culture. Sometimes, the dishes must be readapted because some of the ingredients are not available in the host city, but with other resources, interesting flavours are created. At SICAR-cat we love these exchanges of knowledge and traditions in something as everyday as lunch.

Abstract: The pre-employment workshop in alliance with Wanawake Mujer continues as every Wednesday with the four women survivors of trafficking for the purpose of exploitation that integrate it. One of the parts that we work with them, within the project "Maua, flowers for equality", is to make their reality visible through the flowers that help to end it, like our petals against Female Genital Mutilation. They know that they are part of this project, and they live it as such, putting enthusiasm and affection in what they do. Another important part is all the people who wear the flowers and petals, as with them you continue to say "NO" to all forms of violence against women and girls. That is why, by the hand of our women, we continue.

Abstract: Since last Tuesday 8th February, the Integral Health Service has started the Empowerment Workshop. This is a multidisciplinary space that aims to help women victims of trafficking to recognize their personal power, know their rights and learn tools for self-care and personal wellbeing. The sessions are given by psychologists, social workers, and educators. We thank all the team involved in this work. We continue to work with women in this "new normality" without neglecting our intention to transform and liberate. Forward!

Abstract: A year ago, on #EuropeanDayofVictimsofCrime we published a lot of documentation of the REST project that offers strengthened Protection for Victims of Trafficking through the granting of a residence permit and/or international protection status.

Here are some key ideas:

- The granting of a residence permit to victims of trafficking is a way to guarantee their dignity and access to justice.
- It provides them with the minimum security and stability necessary to achieve their full recovery. However, the implementation of international and European standards in this regard remains very limited and deficient.
- Most EU countries grant a very low number of permanent residence permits and/or international protection to victims of trafficking.
- Furthermore, refoulement under the Dublin III Regulation, within the framework of the Common European Asylum System, and expulsions to countries of origin violate the duty to protect trafficked persons in the long term and may result in the risk that they may be subjected to inhuman or degrading treatment under Article 4 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union.

Fortalecimiento de la Protección a Personas Víctimas de Trata a través de la concesión de un permiso de residencia y/o estatuto de protección internacional.

Recomendaciones

Definir criterios y plazos y simplificar los procedimientos para otorgar permisos de residencia a las personas víctimas de trata por dos vías: tanto en función de su situación personal, como por su cooperación en la investigación y enjuiciamiento de los tratantes.

El acceso a la residencia legal NO debe depender de si se inician, o no, procedimientos judiciales por trata de personas u otros delitos relacionados.

Abstract: Do you know our approach principles? Women survivors of trafficking have a cultural and value baggage that constructs them and gives them identity. We do not pretend to replace or reconstruct identities but to allow them to permeate and empower their capacities for inclusion in society. This is how we understand our intervention, in an ENHANCING way. It is essential to strengthen the relationship through knowledge and mutual understanding, acceptance, empathy, and the establishment of clear limits, based on the following methodological principles: legality and human rights, women as protagonists of the process, flexibility, volunteering, respect for individuality, empowering intervention, interdisciplinarity, integrated intervention in networks, non-revictimization. We invite you to learn more about our way of intervening with survivors of trafficking by visiting our website.

Abstract: We start the week and the Monday with strength, with enthusiasm and with the attitude that women transmit to us. Their strength, bravery and courage are an example to keep our purpose alive. We already told this in a webinar back in 2002 about Revictimization Vs Resilience. RESILIENCE means acknowledging the capacity of women to project themselves into the future, to generate realistic and positive hopes, to turn traumatic experiences into learning and to interpret them from the point of view of the capacity to overcome them. It implies that, from the beginning of the intervention, a positive view of women must be taken as a starting point, by recognizing them as strong, capable, courageous people, with specific problems at a specific moment in time, with projects and possibilities. Resilience is a dynamic process that is subject to factors that depend on the woman and her life trajectory and to factors that have to do with the environment, such as the possibilities of integration and the support she can count on in her recovery process. It is on this last point that we must become aware of the crucial role played by those of us who, directly or indirectly, act and intervene in her recovery process. Much literature, discourse and analysis is still relevant in 2022. Don't miss the information in the link!

Abstract: We would like to thank the CPIFP Hurtado de Mendoza (School of Hotel Management in Granada) for their support to our delegation in Granada. In the framework of 8M and 25N they offered a solidarity meal for some of the women the foundation works with in the city, providing a menu made by the students of the school. We enjoyed a pleasant moment of union and fraternity, generating opportunities, synergies and sharing the work between both institutions.

Abstract: Every Thursday at the Adorers in Ciudad Real the women, accompanied by an educator from the center, take part in a leisure and free time activity, yesterday 25th February they went for a walk and to the park.

Carrying out these activities has great benefits for the women who live in our resource:

- Greater personal wellbeing.
- They promote socialization.
- They allow them to learn new skills.
- They help to improve the quality of life.
